CLERICAL SLIPPERS.

What is Shown by the Annual Reports For 1880.

From the New York Times.

All of our important religious bodies, with the exception of the Cumberland Presbyterians and Mr. Frothingham's newest Church, have made up their annual slipper report nearly ten days earlier than usual. The present report shows, as was anticipated, a large increase in the aggregate amount of slippers presented to clergymen and pastors. Last year the average number received by each minister was three pairs and a half. This year the average number is four and an eighth. It is not probable that when the reports of the Cumberland Presbyterians and Mr. Frothingham are received any essential modification of these figures will be necessary. At any rate, we may safely assume, more ministerial slippers have been manufactured and presented this year than ever before.

While this is true of the aggregate number of slippers, it appears that the increase has not been uniform among the different churches and denominations. For example, the Baptist ministers—including all the different varieties—have received fewer slippers this year than last, the decrease being fully 7 per cent. The cause of this must probably be sought in the growing popularity of long rubber boots reaching to the waist. It is obvious that for the purposes of the Baptist ministry boots of this sort are vastly more useful than slippers, which perish with wetting. This fact is becoming more widely recognized by the Baptist congregations, and last Christmas many of the Baptist ministers received rubber boots labeled "For my Pastor" in place of the usual Christmas slippers.

Again, we find a decrease in the slipper report of the Unitarian denomination—a decrease of 3 1/4 per cent. This we may attribute to the introduction of those heavy, well-lined, and exceedingly warm articles known as arctic overshoes. The feeling existing in many Unitarian congregations that the pastor needs to be artificially warmed has found expression in arctic overshoes, and, of course, when these are given slippers are withheld. This explanation is, of course, put forward merely as a plausible theory, and it is open to any Unitarian who doubts it to maintain that the substitution of arctic overshoes for slippers has been solely due to the exceptionally cold weather of the present winter.

The only other report that shows a decrease in the number of clerical slippers is that of the Episcopal Church. Here the decrease is nearly 13 per cent. To a certain extent this may be explained by the progress of ritualism. The female mind, when imbued with ritualistic views, naturally perceives that altar cloths and embroidered vestments are far more appropriate as clerical gifts than slippers. The consequence is that few ritualistic clergymen have reported any slippers whatever. While we may thus account for part of the 13 per cent decrease, it is evident that ritualism is not sufficiently wide-spread to account for the whole of it.

A careful study of the slipper reports of the last twenty-five years will compel any candid man to accept the conclusion that slippers are a hindrance to the progress of Churches and sects. Harmless and even fascinating as the slipper may seem—except to the gaily small boy awaiting maternal chastisement—it is universally found associated with laziness, or, at all events, lack of energy. Invented by the idle and luxurious nations of the Orient, it has gradually spread over the civilized West, enervating the people and developing the worst vices of our nature, such as the love of philosophy and smoking. It is the universal habit of wearing slippers that Spain owes her descent from the first to the last place among European nations. Holland has put its feet in slippers and thereby lost the empire of the seas, and the terrible spread of pipes and philosophy in Germany is similarly due to slippers.

CONDEMNED.

Alum Baking Powders in Court—Interesting Testimony of Scientific Men.

(New York Times.)

Within the past two years a bitter controversy has been waged between manufacturers, on account of the use of alum as a cheap substitute for Cream of Tartar, by many manufacturers of baking powders. The hand-some profits yielded by using the substitute have induced dealers as well as manufacturers to push them into the hands of consumers, sometimes under definite brands, frequently by weighing out in bulk without any distinguishing name.

Are such powders wholesome? The Royal Baking Powder Co., who make a Cream of Tartar baking powder, declared that they are injurious to the public health, while others, who make alum powders, claim that they are not. The whole matter, as to the effects of these alum powders, has finally been brought into the courts, and the case was tried in the Superior Court of New York City before Chief Justice Sedgwick, reported substantially as follows in the New York Sun:

CONCLUSION OF A LITTLE TROUBLE BETWEEN A CHEMIST AND AN EDITOR.

The suit of Dr. Henry A. Mott against Jabez Burns has brought to light the fact that this country produces at least forty-two different kinds of baking powders. Neither Burns nor Mott has been found guilty of making the baking powders, but Burns, who is the editor of a periodical called the Spice Mill, has been severely mulcted for libel in his efforts to make his paper spicy. Dr. Mott, it appears, is a chemist, and at one time was employed by the United States Government to analyze different specimens of baking powder which had been recommended for adoption to the Indian Bureau. Dr. Mott reported in favor of the cream of tartar baking powders for the Indians, and against the alum baking powders. The chemist analyzed forty-two kinds of baking powders.

The jury were out about half an hour. Then they came in with a verdict awarding Dr. Mott $8,000, to which the Court made an additional allowance of $150.

As the public have a large interest in the wholesomeness of whatever it is called upon to use as food, the following extracts are introduced from the testimony of some of the prominent men as to the injurious effects of alum powders.

Dr. Mott:

Q. Were you employed by the U. S. Government?
A. I was, sir; was employed as chemist, to analyze all the articles of food; to express an opinion as to the analysis of their healthfulness and purity.

Q. Please tell the jury the Baking Powders that you examined while in the employ of the Government?

A. It would be difficult to remember them all; I could refer to my books; I examined twenty-eight powders; was given sixteen at first.

By the Court:

Give your best recollection.

Q. And one of the powders included was Dooley's Baking Powder?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the Charm?

A. Yes, sir; the Charm and Patapasco.

Q. The Baking Powder made by C. E. Andrews, of Milwaukee—did you analyze that?

A. I did.

Q. Please state in which powders you found alum.

A. I found alum in Dooley's, Patapasco, Charm, Vienna, Orient, Amazon, Lake Side, Twin Sisters, Superlative, King, White Lily, Monarch, One Spoon, Regal, Imperial, Honest, Economical, Excelsior, Chartres, Grant's, Giant, and the Queen.

Q. Now, these powders mentioned in your communication in the Scientific American—Dooley's, Standard, Patapasco, Charm—Baking Powder manufactured by C. E. Andrews, of Milwaukee, you stated you found burnt alum; if you will please name the respective powder that you have examined—was it potash or ammonia alum you found?

A. In the Patapasco, Charm, and in the Andrews, it was ammonia alum.

Q. What is the gas usually furnished by Baking Powders?

A. The object of baking powders is to furnish carbonic acid gas.

Q. Will you state to me again what other gas, beside carbonic acid gas, is proper to be evolved from a baking powder?

A. A limited amount of ammonia gas.

Q. I notice in your article that you say starch is a proper ingredient to put into a baking powder?

A. Starch is a proper ingredient to prevent the decomposition of baking powder.

Q. Recurring to the question that has been asked you upon this suit—the result of these examinations which you have made—is it your opinion that alum in these various compounds, in Baking Powders such as you have examined, is injurious?

A. It is my opinion, based upon actual experiments on living animals.

Charles F. Chandler, called on behalf of the plaintiff, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Q. Dr. Chandler, you reside in the City of New York?

A. I do.

Q. Your business is that of a chemist?

A. It is.

Q. You are and have been Professor of Chemistry in several colleges?

A. I have.

Q. Please state how long that employment of yourself has been, and with what colleges you are now connected?

A. I am at present Professor of Chemistry in the Academic Department of Columbia College; the School of Mines, Columbia College; the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, and the New York College of Pharmacy.

Q. You are President, also, of the Board of Health, are you not?

A. I am.

Q. In your various employments, have you had frequent occasion to examine the question of the wholesomeness of food, and the beneficial or injurious effects of its ingredients?

A. I have.

Q. I will ask you in regard to the use of alum with soda, in a baking powder, whether or not it is neutralized—is there any injurious constituent of alum left?

A. There is an injurious constituent left after the mixture of alum and bicarbonate of soda.

Q. Without using any nicety of chemical terms, what is your opinion about the use of ammonia alum in a baking powder, in combination with bicarbonate soda and other ingredients, for raising bread—whether injurious or not?

A. I think it is dangerous to the digestive organs, and liable to produce serious disturbance of the liver of the individual making use of such powder.

Henry Morton, President of Stevens Institute, called in behalf of the plaintiff, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Q. You are President of Stevens Institute?

A. I am.

Q. And have for many years been a chemist?

A. I have.

Q. Have you had occasion to examine the substances which are used in the composition of baking powders?

A. I have.

Q. Did you, some time ago, examine a sample of Dooley's baking powder?

A. I did.

Q. Is that it, sir? [handing can].

A. Yes, sir; that is it.

Q. Well, what kind of alum did it contain?

A. It contained potash alum.

Q. Did you make any extract of the alum to show the kind?

A. I did; I extracted a large quantity of it as potash alum, and it is in that bottle which I have now here [producing bottle]; that is potash alum which came out of the alum baking powder that was in that can.

Plaintiff's counsel offers said can of Dooley's baking powder in evidence.

Q. Now, sir, have you made any experiment in the bread made from baking powder, to see whether there was any soluble alumina in the bread itself?

A. I have; I took a portion of this powder and mixed it with flour in the directed proportions, and baked a small loaf with it; then I soaked this loaf—the interior part of it—in cold water, and made an extract, in which I readily detected, by the usual tests, alum—that is alumina in a soluble condition.

Q. Does any baking powder in which any alumina salts enter contain alumina, in your opinion, which can be absorbed in the process of digestion—are not such objectionable?

A. Very decidedly objectionable, in my opinion.

Q. Why do you say—from what system of reasoning do you make it out—that because alum is injurious, alumina is injurious?

A. Because the injurious effects of alumina, when it gets into the stomach and reacts on the organs, are the same; this hydrate of alumina meets in the stomach the gastric juices, and reacts with them the same as alum would; it forms, in fact, a kind of alum in the stomach with those acids, and whatever alum would do, it would do.

Dr. Samuel W. Johnson, Professor of Chemistry, in the scientific school Yale College, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Q. You have had much to do in the examination of substances that enter into food, and the adulteration of food?

A. More or less; yes, sir.

Q. After the use of alum with soda, in a baking powder, in your opinion, is there any injurious substance left?

A. In my opinion, there is an injurious substance left.

Q. What, sir, two years ago, was the prevailing opinion among scientific men, as to the effect of the use of alum in baking powders?

A. As far as my acquaintance with scientific men is concerned, my personal opinion is derived from my investigation and from reading; I should think the opinion was that alum, or any compound of alumina, would be decidedly injurious.

Q. Do I understand you to say that any baking powder in which there are aluminum salts, or any resultant from alum which could be absorbed in digestion, is objectionable and injurious?
A. Extremely so.

Joseph H. Raymond called, sworn and testified as follows:

Q. Would you be good enough to state your profession?

A. I am a physician; sir, and a professor of physiology.

Q. You also were, and have been for some time, Sanitary Superintendent in Brooklyn—is that so?

A. I have, sir.

Q. Now, sir, I will ask you your opinion, from this experience, whether the use of alum with soda, in a baking powder, is injurious or not, in its physiological effects?

A. I consider it to be dangerous.

Q. You examined this question for the Board of Health in Brooklyn some years ago, did you not?

A. Two years ago, sir, in December.

By the Court:

Q. What was the result of your investigation as to the use of alum in baking powder?

A. The result of my investigation at that time, was this: that the changes which took place between the time that alum baking powder was put in the bread, and the time the bread was eaten, the chemical changes, were so little understood by chemists, that as a physician and physiologist, I considered it a dangerous experiment.

Dr. Mott, the Government chemist, in his review of the subject in the Scientific American, makes special mention of having analyzed the Royal Baking Powder, and found it composed of pure and wholesome materials.

He also advises the public to avoid purchasing baking powders as sold loose or in bulk, as he found by analyses of many samples that the worst adulterations are practiced in this form. The label and trade mark of a well known and responsible manufacturer, he adds, is the best protection the public can have.

The GAZETTE has the best of authority for saying that the bonds of the Nevada & Oregon R. R. are being satisfactorily placed in New York.

NOTINGS.

Standard has declared a dividend of 75 cents.

C. L. S. C. will be held to-morrow evening at Mr. Lee's, at seven o'clock.

The dancers of Reno are anticipating a gay party in the theatre this evening.

Joe has received a large lot of fresh oysters, and will be prepared to serve all who attend the dance this evening.

Those who took part in the concert last evening are requested to call at Miss Knowlton's rooms to-morrow evening, to spend an hour socially.

The mail and express matter for Carson and Virginia was sent up to Franktown this afternoon, where it will be transferred beyond the break.

The lightning came in two hours late this morning. The track between Davisville and Sacramento has been washed out, and the trains have to go via Stockton.

It is a fortunate thing for the people who may have lost their clothing in the Franktown disaster that the White House is only twenty miles away from the scene of the calamity.

J. F. Condon and J. A. McIntosh have bought out A. McClinton's lumber yard in Reno, and will continue the business under the name of "Reno Lumber Co."

A Flood in the Truckee.

The Truckee river commenced rising again last night. At noon to-day it was higher than at any time since last spring, and still rising. At 2 o'clock the flood was nearly as high as the water in the ditch between the river and the Lake House. Many men and boys lined the southern bank, between the bridges, pulling out floating driftwood. It seemed to be raining up in the mountains all day, and if the rain continues, a disastrous flood may result. The water is yet so high enough to do any damage on the meadows, though many acres at Glendale must already be overflowed.

Notice to K. of P. Excursionists.

Some of those who bought tickets for the Knights' excursion next Monday have been speculating in them, some having sold as high as $16 or $17, while the original cost was only $11. The excursion was got up for the benefit of the Knights, and outsiders were granted tickets as a favor. The management now give notice that no transferred tickets will be received on the cars. They also request all persons who have bought tickets to apply to the managers immediately for the regular railroad tickets in place of those that have been sold.

FRANKTOWN'S FATE!

NEARLY ALL THE TOWN SWEEPED AWAY

By a Deluge From a Broken Reservoir.

A Wave Twenty Feet High—Steel Rails Snapped in Two Like Pipe-stems—Houses Carried Half a Mile by the Flood—Ranches Covered With Debris—No Lives Lost.

The disaster which had for two days been momentarily expected at Franktown came yesterday afternoon. At about two o'clock the Little Valley dam gave way, and the immense volume of water in the reservoir poured down the canyon and swept away the greater portion of the town. In anticipation of the calamity, the women and children had all been removed to Bowers' Mansion and a ranch south of town. Nearly all the portable household goods of value had also been removed to a place of safety. No lives were lost, and, as far as known, no serious injury was done to anyone.

THE RESERVOIR

was constructed for the purpose of irrigating a number of ranches in the valley below Franktown. The dam was completed only a few months ago. It was built by William Thompson, under contract, for $3,500. The dam was built in a narrow canyon at the lower end of Little valley. The valley which formed the bottom of the reservoir was level, with gently sloping shores. The sheet of water contained in the reservoir before the break was about a mile in length and three quarters of a mile wide. Its average depth was from fifteen to twenty feet. The dam was about a hundred feet wide at the base. It was built without masonry, of undressed boulders filled in with sand and gravel by means of sluicing. The rough wall was about twelve feet thick at the bottom and four feet at the top. Planking was secured against the inner base of the dam, and loose earth and stone dumped above it to form a sloping inner wall. This earth and rock, dumped within the rough wall, gave the dam a total thickness at the base of about 140 feet, sloping up to four feet at the top. A GAZETTE reporter learned from Senator Fair at the depot here last evening that the base of the dam was 1,186 feet above the railroad track at Franktown, and on a level with the corner of Taylor and C streets, in Virginia City. The Senator made measurements of the place years ago with a view of constructing a reservoir to hold a water supply for Virginia. The distance from the reservoir to the track was about 2 1/4 miles. The depth of water pressing against the dam yesterday morning was about forty feet. A flood gate had been constructed when the dam was built, at a height of 36 feet from the ground, but that was found entirely insufficient to give vent to the rising water. The heavy rains had brought down an immense volume of water, and the reservoir filled with a rapidity that was entirely unexpected. In ordinary seasons the reservoir would receive its supply of water mainly in the spring, through the gradual melting of the snow in the mountains, and the waste gate would let it out faster than it could flow in. Such another rain storm as caused the catastrophe yesterday is not likely to happen in ten years.

THE FLOOD.

A force of twelve men were set to work on the dam yesterday to make a cutting by which the pent up water above the flood gate could escape. About the middle of the afternoon the dam suddenly gave way, and the men were caught by the rush of water and borne some distance below the dam, when they were flung by the force of the torrent against the side of the canyon, where they held on and escaped. The deluge swept down the narrow gorge in one gigantic wave, in the narrowest places in the canyon attaining a depth of 100 feet. The immense boulders in the bottom of the defile were thrown into the air like pebbles by the mighty force of the water, and the air was filled to the height of a hundred feet above the gorge by the earth flung up by the advancing wave, and the great cloud of mist which rose above it and marked its progress. The roar of the rushing flood was heard distinctly at Washoe City, nearly five miles away. The men remaining at Franktown were constantly on the watch, and when the sound of the advancing flood smote their ears they lost no time in getting out of town. It did not take many minutes for the water to tear its way through the canyon and reach the town, 2 1/4 miles below. It spread out at the mouth of the canyon, and swept over the flat as solid, rolling wave, with a seething, foaming crest. It was fully twenty feet deep where it crossed the track. The houses in its path were knocked from their foundations in a twinkling, and borne away like cockle shells upon the bosom of the flood. The railroad track for a distance of a quarter of a mile was torn from its bed and flung edgewise against a fence by the roadside. Steel rails snapped like sticks under the mighty strain. Pieces of broken rail were carried forty yards from the track by the rush of the water. Immense boulders and saw logs were brought down by the bore and deposited on the flat. The torrent constantly widened after leaving the canyon, and spread to a great width below the town, until it reached Washoe lake. Barns and houses from the town lie scattered along its path, some of them having been carried half a mile away from their foundations.

THE DAMAGE

can hardly fall short of $50,000. The injury to the railroad track is estimated at $5,000. The ranches in the track of the flood are covered with debris of sand and gravel, some of them to a depth of two or three feet. With the exception of a small house belonging to Manuel Rogers, every building north of the station was demolished or swept away. The number of buildings washed away or broken up is said to be eighteen. Most of them were smashed to pieces. Two of them were deposited, roofs up, a quarter of a mile away from their foundations. Only five or six buildings remain of all that constituted Franktown. The station building was caught by the edge of the flood and swung around end to the track, but was not carried away. John Duval's hotel (the property of Mrs. Ent) was left standing, but was filled with mud, and water, leaving a deposit a foot deep on the floor. Among the buildings swept away were the section houses; Gildo Corasco's house and barn, and 120 feet of cattle sheds; E. B. Tolles' store and house; Mrs. Bowers' house; C. A. Lee's store and buildings; Beecroft's dance hall, with 40 tons of hay; the Mormon church, and Geo. Murray's new house. Lee had moved his groceries; Duval his stock of liquors, etc., and furniture; but Tolles moved nothing and lost all. A number of horses and cattle were carried off by the flood and may have been drowned.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

The dam is said to have been all paid for by the company for which it was built, with the exception of about $600 still due. It is understood that a bond was given by Mr. Thompson, guaranteeing the dam for two years, but it is said, on the other hand, that the company failed to satisfy the terms of the contract. There is likely to be some litigation over the matter. It will be a nice question for the lawyers to argue over in the courts, whether the breaking of the dam was the fault of Thompson or the act of God. God is usually made to figure as a co-responder in cases of this kind, it being an established legal principle that no man can be made responsible for the work of the Almighty. The difficulty of fixing responsibility on God often gives rise to highly ingenious legal arguments.

The damage to the railroad is so considerable that no trains are expected to get through before to-morrow night. A great deal of debris has been piled on the track. A train went up from Reno this morning with 25 men to help repair the road. A large force of men was also sent down from Carson. Fears were expressed last night that the water would break down the dam at the foot of Little Washoe Lake and flood Steamboat creek, in which case the railroad bridges over the creek would probably be swept away. No mail has been received from Carson or Virginia since Tuesday night. It was raining hard at Franktown early this morning, and a great deal of water was still coming down the canyon from the reservoir. Hawes went up with a lot of men to try to turn it. The telegraph line was thrown down by the flood for a third of a mile, thirteen poles being carried away. Frank Bell went up this morning with repairers, and had the line in working order at noon.

THE DELUGE IN CALIFORNIA.

Highest Water Mark Ever Reached by the Sacramento River—The Valley Flooded.

VALLEJO Train, Feb. 10.

The sun rose red this morning, and what little wind there is is southeast. The air is damp and chilly; the clouds are thick and of a uniform gray, and the people say the storm is not over. The American is said to be falling, although it is now running a torrent under nearly every bent of the long trestle work east of town. The Sacramento is the highest ever known, by six inches. The city is safe except from its own drainage. That runs down to the levee and has to be pumped over. The river has broken through the levee in several places, three miles below, and the whole country is being swept over. A good deal of stock has been lost. Most of the families on the riverside road have moved into Sacramento with their valuables. On the Washington side the railroad is most out of sight of land. The great ocean seems hardly wider than the brown torrent that sweeps across the valley. Great black lines of rotten tule stems and drift mark the edges of the currents. When the flood goes down, this debris will lodge on the wheat fields and be very annoying to the ranchers. The road from Sacramento to Vallejo is open, but the cut-off through Benicia is under water, and the overland goes around by Stockton. Passengers can leave the overland at Sacramento and get on the train for Vallejo, whence a boat crosses to the Junction below Benicia and connects with the Los Angeles train which reaches San Francisco about noon, two hours and a half ahead of the overland. The ride is not a very cheerful one. The whole country looks like an ague, and I would rather be poor in Reno than rich over here.

The C. P. Pays Its Taxes to Lander County.

The attachment of C. P. trains at Battle Mountain and Golconda yesterday, under judgment for taxes due Lander county, was removed on payment of the amount in dispute—$34,000. The west-bound overland arrived here about three hours behind time in consequence of the seizure. Passengers on the train reported that the C. P. lawyers at San Francisco kept a constant fusillade of telegrams pouring into the Sheriff of Lander county. The lawyers protested that the seizure was illegal; that the rolling stock of the C. P. was mortgaged, and consequently could not be attached, and they referred him to certain sections of the laws of the State. But he stood firm, and answered that he meant to hold on to what he had attached and to stop everything that came along, and that on the morrow he would put a notice of sale on the rolling stock he had attached. He disconnected the express and mail cars from the overland train and told the railroad men to go on with the mail and express if they wanted to. At one time it was feared that a fight would result between the railroad people and the authorities, but they did not come to blows. Trains are now all moving as usual.

The Concert Last Night.

The entertainment at the M. E. Church last evening was in every way a success. The tableaux were much admired. Miss Knowlton in "Elaine," and Miss Hilliard in the "Execution of Lady Jane Grey," sustained the leading roles. In another tableau Mrs. Phillips' beautiful little child made a hit as "Cupid." There was some excellent singing and instrumental music, with an amusing comedy, pantomime, etc.; the whole performance being much better than the average church entertainment.

Senator Powning Barely Deceived.

According to the Appeal, Senator Powning was sadly deceived by a confidence operator named Myer, in Carson the other day. Myer applied to the Senator for $450 to enable him to go down to San Francisco where his wife was dying. Mr. Powning gave him $5 and subsequently found that Myer was an impostor. Myer is described as "about 5 1/2 feet high, dark complexioned, with black hair and moustache, dresses in black."

KIDNAPED OFFICIALLY.

A Horse-Thief Rescued From His Captors Near Fort Bidwell.

Deputy Sheriff I. Chamberlain returned from Fort Bidwell this morning, whither he went to capture Joseph Domingo, the notorious horse-thief who recently got away with a valuable animal belonging to E. W. Crutcher. Chamberlain found his man at Fort Bidwell, which is in California, and therefore he had no legal right to arrest Domingo there, not being possessed of the necessary requisition. So Chamberlain felt obliged to kidnap the man, and did so. He lost no time in getting away from Bidwell. He and Charles Crutcher (a relative of E. W.'s), with the horse-thief between them, were coming merrily toward Reno in a buckboard, and had left Bidwell six miles behind, when half a dozen mounted men overtook them. They ordered Chamberlain to halt, and covered him and Crutcher with six-shooters. The horsemen then made the kidnappers alight and hand over their pistols. They drew the charges from Chamberlain's pistol, and gave it back to him. After discharging Crutcher's pistol in the air, and returning the empty weapon, they rode back to Bidwell with the rescued horse-thief. The noise of the firing frightened Chamberlain's horse, and he made off with the buckboard. The two kidnappers stood and swore awhile, terrific blood-curdling oaths that made the sage brush shiver. Then they went after the buckboard. They overtook it in course of time, and pensively resumed their journey homeward—pensively, because they had lost the company of the horse-thief.

Personal.

Senator Fair went below last night. R. H. McGinley, the comedian, was married in Colusa last December to Miss Evaline Hodges, of the Vernal Comedy Troupe.

J. T. Preddy, agent of the V. & T. at Carson, has gone east by way of the Southern Pacific. He never has been in any Eastern State. He came to California from Old England by water. He will be gone six weeks.

Gold in the Stein Mountains.

The Silver State learns from a reliable source that rich and extensive placer mines have recently been discovered in the Stein Mountain country. The discoverers are satisfied from the prospects found in the gravel, that the diggings will pay from ten to twenty dollars a day to the hand. They are now organizing a district and locating claims, and when they get choice claims located they will make the exact locality known to the public.

The Reformatory Influence of Coffee Houses.

From the New York Tribune.

So great has been the success from a business as well as a moral point of view of the coffee houses established in the chief English cities as a means of keeping men away from the taverns, that the way would seem to be plainly open for similar enterprises in this country. Most of the English companies pay an annual dividend of 10 per cent. on their capital. The coffee houses supply coffee, tea and cocoa, soups, cold meats and bread and butter—all the articles being of good quality and the prices low. Newspapers are kept in abundance, and the customers are free to remain and read as long as they please. We have plenty of places in this city where so-called coffee can be had at cheap rates, but it is a beverage which neither cheers the brain nor warms the stomach; besides, the workingman who swallows a cup of it feels that he is expected to pay for it and vacate the premises as soon as possible. Only in the saloons is he welcome to sit and chat with his friends. The coffee house which serves as an agency of temperance must be a sort of club house, to which poor people can resort and find wholesome cheap beverages that will not make them drunk.

THE BOSS!

Edison Outdone.

Over 150,000 Sold.

Patented April 3, 1878, June 11, 1878, and July 6, 1879.

Boss Coffee, Tea Pots & Urns.

It is the Boss! Why? Because it produces Boss Coffee.

It makes rich flavored Coffee! Why? Because it takes all the aroma and food are retained.

It beats them all! Why? Because it saves 100 per cent over boiled Coffee, which is not Coffee, but bitter water. Second—Because it saves 50 per cent over any other method of making Coffee. Third—Because it saves eggs and trouble of clarifying. Fourth—Because it makes Coffee as clear as red wine. Fifth—Because it takes only two minutes to make Boss Coffee.

The Boss works as well on Tea, and saves 25 to 50 per cent.

While Edison may furnish light to millions, the BOSS will assuredly give health to all who use it. Thousands have become dyspeptic and bilious from drinking boiled coffee or better water, (boiled coffee is not coffee, but bitter water) and have suffered from indigestion, headache, and other ailments. Stop drinking boiled coffee. Make your coffee as nature ordained, and restore your health. Many inventors have racked their brains to furnish the human family with a practical method of making coffee. At last the happy hour has been accomplished in the production of very cheap and simple Pots and Urns celebrated as the BOSS.

To Whom It May Concern:—After thoroughly testing the BOSS COFFEE POT, we, the undersigned, fully endorse the same as the best method of making Coffee we have ever seen. Besides saving eggs, it will save a large per cent of the Coffee. It produces Coffee as clear as wine, which is much stronger, and has a more delicious flavor than any coffee made by any other process.
